MAN KNOCKED DOWN BY A HORSE AND NEARLY KILLED.—A man about seventy years of age, named Joseph Brandt, residing on Liberty-street, between Main and Walnut, while on his way to Covington, yesterday afternoon, when at the corner of Fifth and Main, was knocked down by a horse which a man rode recklessly by, and injured so se-verely that it is thought he can not recover.

BURGLARY ON HARRISON-STREET.—The residence of Henry Pierce, on Harrison-street, east of Broadway, was feloniously entered last Sunday night, and robbed of a quantity of lead pipe and brass faucets, which the burglars found in the cellar. Information of the robbery was left at the Station-house, but it is hardly probable the scoundrels will ever be discovered. BURGLARY ON HARRISON-STREET,-The resi-

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY COMMISSION-ERS.—At their regular diurnal session, held yesterday morning, the County Commis-sioners passed orders amounting in the ag-gregate to $585, of which $436 were paid to James McCoy, for painting the South-western Lunatic Asylum, and $100 to Huston, Carle-ton & Co., for flagging the space in front of the same institution. No other business worthy of note was transacted.

GROCKET ON SIXTH-STIERET BURGLARIOUSLY ENTERED AND ROBERD.—The grocery-store of Joseph Wilson, located at No. 224 Sixth-street, between Central-svenue and Plum, was burglariously entered, night before last, and robbed of twenty dollars in money and a quantity of articles amounting to as much more. The windows, it appears, were without shutters, and the burglars, by breaking the sash, found an easy access to the store, which they ransacked so long as they dared, and afterward quietly departed with their booty.

AN INERRIATED WASHERWOMAN DROWNED IN A CISTERN.—A washerwoman named Mar-garet Foulkes, residing on Butler-street, near garet Foulkes, residing on Butler-street, near Third, yesterday afternoon, while in a state of intoxication, fell into a cistern in the yard at the rear of her dwelling, and was drowned. Her body was recovered shortly afterward, and some efforts made to resuscitate it, which were fruitless. The habits of the deceased are said to have been so dissipated that her children, two in number, had to be taken from her and cared for by some humane society, which, we believe, has them still in charge. charge.

CINCINNATI EDITOR ROBBED IN NEW YORK Cincinnati Editor Robbed in New York. From our New York exchanges we learn that Charles J. Foster, formerly connected with the press of this city, and also of Columbus, but now editor of Porter's Spirit, was robbed a short time ago, in that city. It appears that at the time of the robbery Mr. Foster was in a saloon in Grand-street, when a man named William Gallagher snatched a $5 bill from his hand and fled. Shortly after, as Mr. Foster was standing on the sidewalk, the same person approached him and, it is from his hand and fied. Shortly after, as Mr. Foster was standing on the sidewalk, the same person approached him and, it is charged, suddenly thrust his hands into the editor's pantaloons pocket and extracted $12 more. A description of the thief led to his arrest, and he was subsequently committed for trial.

A Paize Fight INTERRUPTED BY THE Po-LICE.—A couple of men, named John Fitz-gibbon and James Bren, yesterday had a dis-pute in regard to the respective merits of Morrissey and Heenan, and by way of set-tling it they determined to have a little "mill" of their own. They forthwith put up $25 a side, and repaired to a carpenter-shop on Second-street, between Sycamore and Broadway, where they "went in," apparently determined to win.

The defender of Heenan seemed to have the chances in his favor, and the "dial" and "mug" of his opponent both bore testimony to the well-aimed "stunners" and "sockdol-ogurs" they had been compelled to "stop." Before they had ended the contest, however, the police appeared upon the scene and ar-rested both the parties, lodged them in the Hammond-street Station-house to await an examination before Judge Lowe. When the meeting had been regularly organized, upon motion, L. M. Hubby, of the Cleveland and Columbus Railroad: Judge Swan, of Columbus, were appointed a Committee on Business, after which the Convention took a recess for one hour, in order to give the committee time to prepare a report.

After the meeting had been again called to order, the following report was read by the Chairman of the committee, and, on motion of W. H. Clements, unanimously adopted:

"For the purpose of establishing and maintaining reasonable and remunerative rates for contest between father and mother in rela-tion to the custody of their child, Cassins W. Davis, a little boy aged seven years.

It appeared the parties were married ten-years, and had been separated about two; but nothing was disclosed showing any real cause of difficulty. The statement of each party was heard, besides other testimony in the case.

party was heard, besides other testimony in the case.

Judge Storer said he never heard of a case in which parties had separated upon such trivial grounds. He thought, considering the present age of the child, while its manners and morals were in a plastic condition, the mother was the most proper custodian, and awarded the care to her, with liberty to the father to see it when he thought proper, but strongly recommended both parties to return to their early affection and live together.

Mr. Clements then presented a request from the American Baptist Missionary Union, which will meet in this city some time in May, to re-establish the half-fare arrange-ment for the convenience of those who may attend it, and offered the following resolu-tion: bounding the same improvement to pay for same.

The City Civil Engineer was instructed to report an ordinance to establish the grade of Ohio-avenue.

On motion of Mr. Horton, the Clerk was instructed to prepare and transmit to the City Council an ordinance to pave with bowlders Smith-street, from Front to the Whitewater Canal.

On motion of Mr. Stagge, the Clerk was instructed to advertise for proposals to build a brick culvert, of four feet interior diameter, to pass the water under Clark-street, from Linn to Freeman.

Also, to prepare and transmit to the City Council an ordinance to grade and pave with bowlder stone Dayton-alley, from Central-avenue to Whiteman-street.

Also, prepare and to transmit to the City Council an ordinance to pave with brick the anpaved sidewalks on Hopkins-street, from Central-

VERDICT IN THE ELLA BURNS CASE—THE DEFENDANT DREMED GUILTY OF GROSS CRUELTY AND BERACH OF INDENTURE.—Aday or two ago we stated that an action had been brought before Justice Harris, of this city, to dissolve the contract existing between Officer Whitten and Martha Pollock alias Martha Pollock alias Sixth-street, has received the New York "Clipper," "Wilkie's Spirit," "Porter's Spirit," together with the other New York weeklies. Harper's popular Magazine for May, contain-ing much good reading, can also be found on Martha Burns, in regard to the child Eva Belle Whitten. The defendant is charged with a breach of the indenture by which she held the child under her guardianship, and his counter.

The case came up for examination yesterday afternoon, and resulted in a verdict for the A number of witnesses were examined before the jury, which consisted of the following persons: J. S. Röss, Thomas McLean, J. Beall, A. Carnes, T. Mundy. Many of these persons were residents of Polktown, the place in which the defendant was born and reared, all of whom testified to her bad character which seems to have been notarious.

CASE OF HERNDON VS. CRIGLER, McDONALI CASE OF HERNDON VS. CRICIAM, MCDONALD ET AL.—This case, in which the defendants are charged with assisting a man named Williams, from Cincinnatt, in abducting the plaintiff's daughter, on the 21st of January last, came up for trial yesterday in the Boone County Circuit Court, but upon application of the counsel for McDonald, a continuance every acquaintance she made.

One or two women in this city, whose establishments are notorious, also testified that she had resided with them at different periods, and represented her chastity as being of the most clastic kind. Other witnesses, with some of whom she had boarded in her native village, and who had been acquainted with her from childhood, also testified to her lack of physical virtue, and corroborated all the statements in regard to her character which had before been made.

The indenture by which she obtained possession of the child was read to the jury, and the facts elicited in regard to the manner in was had, and the venue changed to Gallitan County. The damages claimed are $5,000.

Case of WM, S. Balley.—Wm. S. Bailey appeared before Mayor Hawkins yesterday morning, to answer a charge of a breach of the peace, and filed an affidavit for the continuance till Monday, which was granted. Immediately afterward he was arrested for perjury, it being alleged that he made averments in the affidavit which were untrue. He was examined before 'Squires Paine and Hallam, but as the prosecutors failed entirely to establish the charge, a nolle was promptly entered.

This is a singular case in many respects, and if the judgment of the jury be sustained, effectually destroys the indenture. The testimony in regard to the character of Mrs. Burns and the assessing to damages by the jury, do not seem to be at all relevant, but the main object has been attained—to annul the contract through which the child is held. As the parent is the legal guardian of his own child, the verdict of the jury, in effect, gives Eva Bolle Whitten into the caustody of her father, but it is quite likely another habeas corpus will have to be issued in New York, where the girl is at present, before the end can be determined. entered. entered.

THE ADVANTAGES OF NARCOTIC INJECTIONS NEURALGIA.—The Medical Times and Ga-IN NEURALGIA.—The Medical Times and Gazette, referring to cases of neuralgia in which the local treatment by narcotic injection into the parts was employed, enumerates as follows what appears to be the advantages of that method: That much less constitutional—nervous—irritation attends the local introduction of the narcotic than when it is given by the stomach, that the effect of the narcotic is more immediately produced; that the action of the narcotic appears more sure when injected—the exact amount taken into circulation can be more readily seen, and the risk of contamination or alteration which it is extion can be more readily seen, and the risk of contamination or alteration which it is exposed to, given by the stomach, is avoided and it appears to exert more benefit on the local affection when it has to be absorbed from the part affected itself, probably from being brought more directly into contact with the nerves involved in the disease. On the other hand there are the disadvantages. These are chiefly—the pain occasioned by the introduction of the fine canula; the fluid escaping from the wound or puncture; and the production of local inflammation, effusion of blood, abscess.

Scandal in Fashionable Life—A New York Merchant Finds his Wife Untrue and a Villain Living by her Secret.

Thursday's New York Sun tells the painful tory, for the strict truth of which it vouches:

About three years since, Mr. W—, a gentleman of irreproachable character, and substantial income arising from his business as a commission merchant, in the Second Ward, was rash enough to get married. The lady was very beautiful, seemed to possess every charm of virtue, intelligence and refinement, and to her new home carried with her the substantial charms of a heavy bank account, placed at her disposal by an indulgent papa. The newly made husband was devotedly attached to her, and his affection seemed to be returned, and the only bar now remaining to their perfect happiness, was the frequent attacks of despondency, which the lady always managed, however, to pass off as the results of indisposition.

These periods of mental depression only called forth the renewed tenderness of her affectionate husband, who never, for a moment, dreamed that aught else than the reason she assigned could be their cause. About a year after marriage, their union was blessed with a child, and the lady, absorbed in the new care, overcame, for almost a year, her former melancholy. In June of last year, however, she was suddenly attacked one day, and without apparent cause by a violent hysteric fit, and from that time until the present, her melancholy has returned with tenfold force and frequency, until at length the fear forced itself on her husband's mind that her intellect was impaired. Her expenditures of money became lavish in the extreme, although she seemed to purchase nothing, and her name appeared in none of the fashionablesin-cloaks of charity societies. Her husband finally resolved to question her on the subject, but her only answer to his interrogatories was a violent hysteric fit, bringing on a fever, which lasted several days.

During her delirium, some words she dropped had such an effect on her husband's mind, that he obtained her key and opened her private escritoire, where he found a package of letters which at once explained the whole mystery. They were all written by the same hand and dated down from the month of J

The Fitners of Prior and Potter for a Bowie-entre Duel.—Those acquainted with both Messrs. Potter and Pryor say it is a mistake that in an encounter with Bowie-knives Potter would have any marked advantage over Pryor, on account of his superior weight. Potter is about forty-three years old; Pryor about thirty-two. Potter weights about two hundred; Pryor about one hundred and fifty. But Pryor is taller, and his arms a good deal longer than Potter's. Length of arm and vigor of muscle are, in a contest with knives, advantages which surpass anything growing out of mere superiority of weight. Pryor though more slender than Potter, possesses one of these little forms, which, when in proper condition, are always supposed to be capable of extraordinary feats in a hand-to-hand contest with weapons like swords, knives, &c. At all events, any difference between the combatants, of the sort indicated, are insufficient either to have induced Potter to select the weapons proposed by his second, or to warrant Pryor in whimpering about the size and weight of his antagonist. size and weight of his antagonist.
